HANSATEMPRA STYLE

Design is adapted for comfort: HANSATEMPRA STYLE.

Hansa's thermostats have ranked among the best in terms of comfort factor while bathing and are as such a technically demanding product. HANSATEMPRA STYLE introduces a new generation of incomparable thermostats which continue to further perfect the intelligent Hansa technology, especially when it comes to setting new design standards.

The slender body of the HANSATEMPRA STYLE measures a mere 48 mm. This not only gives an elegant impression, but also has practical advantages: the hot water paths are so short that the full metal body cannot heat up. This protects against unpleasant surprises upon contact of the surface. The water temperature is visualised through the form of the handle and can be preset for maximum comfort at pleasant 38° C. When the eco function is turned on, the volume of water used can be reduced by 50%.

Stylish companion: HANSATEMPRA STYLE.

What defines HANSATEMPRA STYLE is the combination of cylindrical and square forms and the characteristic profile that results from this. Smooth surfaces dominate which clearly and harmoniously blend in together. The simple, yet highly distinctive contours are a continuation of the style and design of modern bathroom interiors.

This, however, allows for a deliberately series-independent design which is able to harmoniously combine various thermostat solutions with many bathroom interiors – in private as well as public areas.

The aerator is flush in the flat, cubic bathtub spout, and is therefore well hidden. Using the knob on the spout, the hand shower can be turned on.

For example, the HANSA-TEMPRA STYLE shower thermostat can also come with a fitted shower system. The system is adjustable and can therefore be installed under sloping ceilings. Switching over to the hand or head shower can be done through the handle.
